The 16th our Horse march'd by the Way of Somariva, Bra, and other Places, to Chirasco, to consume the Forrage. The 24th the Enemy renew'd their Prohibition to the Peasants to bring Corn in hither, and mark'd out a Camp near Volpiano, in order to post Troops there, and intercept those who might endeavour to come hither with Provisions: They are getting together a great Number of Palisades at Chivazzo and Castagneto on each side of the Po, and give out they will block up this City, and reduce it by Famine. The 28th a Regiment of Foot was sent to Asti, to strengthen that Garrison, upon Advice that some of the Enemy's Horse had pass'd the Tanara, and that their Foot which were quarter'd in the Montferrat were on the march that Way likewise. That morning, by Day-break, a Detachment of the Enemy of 1500 Horse, commanded by Paul Diack, advanc'd to Lanzo to surprize part of our Hussars: An advanc'd Guard of 17 Men posted at Loretto were taken Prisoners, but the rest of our Hussars taking the Alarm, fled in Disorder, leaving behind them all their Baggage and 40 Men that were taken. The Expedition Pacquet-Boat, Captain Clyes Commander, arriv'd in Seven days from Lisbon the 19th Inst. at Falmouth; whence (we are told) the Captain writes, That the 8th of this Month my L. Galloway, with the Army under his Command, march'd from the Frontier of Portugal into Spain; that the 9th the Dutch Convoy with the Ships from England arriv'd at Lisbon; that Sir John Leake had receiv'd an Invitation from Cadiz to come into that Bay, and thereupon was preparing with the utmost Expedition to go thither. 10 Leagues from the Rock of Lisbon, this Pacquet-Boat was attack'd by a French Ship of 28 Guns, which lash'd her board and board, and in that Posture they fought very briskly, till the Captain finding himself and 25 of his Men wounded, and 3 kill'd, among the latter a Gentleman Passenger, threw over 2 Mails he had on board, but still maintain'd the Fight, which lasted 3 Glasses, when the Frenchman cut loose from the Pacquet-Boat and sheer'd off. Captain Clyes would have return'd to Lisbon, being disabled in his Rigging, and having receiv'd abundance of Shot in his Hull, but the Wind being fair for England he resolv'd to come forward. Four or Five days after, Three large Ships appear'd in Sight, standing towards him; whereupon he threw over-board his Boat and other Lumber ber that lay in his Way, and prepar'd for a Second Fight; and his Men as chearful as himself resolv'd to sell their Ship dear; he made a West in his Shrowds which was immediately answer'd by one of the nearest Ships in View; he made a 2d West, and the said Ship immediately with the other 2 made Answer to him; which prov'd to be private Signals between him and the Dutch Capers that ply from Falmouth to the Westward; thereupon they left him and steer'd their Cruize, and he came into Falmouth.
